KELOWNA, B.C. – January 4th, 2024. Residential real estate market sales activity for December cooled as high interest rates continued to impact the real estate market, reports the Association of Interior REALTORS® (the Association).

A total of 528 residential unit sales were recorded across the Association region in December coming in below November's 813 units sold and representing a 12.4% decrease in sales compared to December 2022.

New residential listings saw a healthy increase of 16.7% compared to December 2022 with 859 new listings recorded last month. The total number of active listings saw an increase of 24.3% of total inventory compared to December 2022 with 5,889 recorded across the Association region. The highest percentage increase in active listings was seen in the South Okanagan for another consecutive month with a total increase of 47.5% compared to December 2022.

"While we usually see a slowdown in market activity during the holiday season, sales activity was slower than usual in December" says the Association of Interior REALTORS® President Chelsea Mann, adding that "buyers and sellers who have been waiting on the sidelines for potential interest rate relief may likely still be optimistically holding off on pursuing their real estate endeavours to see if the new year will finally provide more favourable mortgage rates."

"Overall, 2023 was a bit of a weak year for real estate sales with three rate hikes, devastating wildfires, a lack of affordable housing and other outside factors all likely contributing to a general slowdown in transactions," says Mann.

In the South Peace River region, there was a total of 19 residential unit sales recorded in December 2023 marking a 20.8% decrease compared to December 2022, and down from November 2023's 26 units sold. There were 21 new listings representing a 5% increase in year-over-year comparison, with a total of 192 active listings in December marking a 8.6% decrease compared to December 2022.

"Much like other real estate markets across BC the South Peace River region saw a dampening in activity in December with below average sales to close out the year," says Mann."

The average price for single-family homes decreased 21.4% compared to December 2022 coming in at $234,250. The average price for mobile homes saw an increase of 319.2% in year-over-year comparison coming in at $109,000.
